try—beyond it was a boundless wilderness, inhabited only by the savage and the beasts of the forest.

Will you pardon me, brother Farmers of Illimois and Wisconsin, of Iowa and Minnesots, if I yield for a moment to the influence of overpowering associations connected with that eventful period in your history—when the pioneers of your now smiling and peaceful country, were feeting in terror from the temahawk and scalping knile of the savage; when their wives and children were crowded together in the block house at Fort Dearborn, which stood in the very heart of your now populous city—a small body of troops was sent from the seaboard to afford them succor and protection. Of that ill-fated band, who were exposed to the two-fold vicinationes of war and pestience, it was may lot to be a member. You will not wonder, therefore, that I feel a peculiar interest in your growth and prosperity, and that when I look on the familiar seenery of your lake and river, and think of your boundless peairies, over which I have marched with no other guide than the compass and the sun, I feel that I am not a stranger, and that in bidding you welcome on your own soil, I am exercising the privilege of one who may almost claim the rights of a citizen among you. In a brief period after the events to which I have allied, the reabing tide of emigration commounts of the dry prairie meets the western extremity of awigation on the lakes, whose commerce now rivals that or our attantic coast, and pressing onward to the farthest verge of navigation, found its way to this favored spot, where the eastern projection of the dry prairie meets the western extremity of awigation on the lakes, whose commerce now rivals that or tour attantic coast, and pressing onward to the farthest verge of navigation, found its way to this favored spot, where the eastern projection of the dry prairie meets the western extremity of awigation on the lakes, whose commerce has built up a mart for the outlet of their products, the growth of which has not been equaled by tha visitors to the Great National Fair have enjoy voring auspices, and our city and her guests Hon. The unexpected, and, I may say unmerited allassian to me in such compliance that yet in the circumstances under which I am now placed, compel me to appear before you. From it they derive their nourishment and their prosperity. It is the great agricultural people; and all that remains for us is for that great agricultural interest to feel its own strength, improve its intelligence and take the government of the country into its own hands. (Applause.) It belongs to the agriculturalists. It is one of their rights, and those rights—the rights of the people—will never be so well secured, the principles of republican government will never be so well substrated and practiced, as when they shall teach the government whas they are to teach the whole westly shall teach the government whas they are to teach the whole westly shall teach the government whose they are to teach the whole westly shall teach the government whose they are to teach the whole westly shall teach the government whose they are to teach the whole westly shall teach the government whose they are to teach the whole westly shall teach the government whose they are to teach the whole westly shall teach the government whose they are to teach the whole westly shall teach the government whose they are to teach the whole westly shall teach the government whose they are to teach the whole westly shall teach the government whose they are to teach the whole westly shall teach the government whose they are to teach the whole westly shall teach the government whose they are to teach the whole westly shall be a mighty arbiter, and mighty arbiter the shall have been sufficiently spoken of by him, one of their rights of the providence has given by a shall teach the government whose they are to teach the whole were plained to the providence has given by the westly shall be a mighty arbiter. You are really the Great West, We have our South-West and our North-West, but for God's sake let her be the West still (laughter.) We have a Great West belonging neither to North or South. We are out here in the woods, but we are a great number, and wa are mitliplying like the sands of the sea-shore. What is our business and our duty? How are we related to this North and South, and the danger of possible collisions between them? We must have a North and a South to serve our purposes and to zerve their purposes. We have a great, plain, visible interest. The mere affections of men are too changeable to be relied upous as political foundation for government. With Union, or anything else, you must have a mixture of interest and than with the hearts of the people, you will have secured the action of the country for all time to come. You of the Northwest or West, or Southwest have occasion for united action, and will have it more an more visibly every day. You of the North, and those of the South will always be the great productive regions—a union in agriculture at least. You must have New Orleans to go to, and they must have New York to go to. Murder Trial in England,

The long pending trial of Dr. Smethus se murder of a Miss Bankes, at Rich near London, has terminated with a verdict of guilty," and someone of death had been pro-councid. The Doctor, it will be remembered tot up a fictations marriage with the lady in a up a fictations marriage with the lody in marton, this wife being alive, in disonly poined her for the sake of her money. The case treated much attention. Before the sentence is protonuced, the prisoner proceeded to dress the Court, and spoke in a rambling and for fifty minutes. He repeatedly called on God to witness his innocence; declared - Julius (the princinal medical witness) had sacrificed bis life, and generally stacked the parties concerned in the prosecution. He said that Isabella Bankes knew that he was married, and it was agreed that their union should be ratified hereafter, in the event of the death of his wife. With regard to the property, he said that he might have had the whole and sole control of it if he pleased, for there was nothing raich Isabella Isanks would have withheld from him. His address was delivered in a low, concressitional tone.

The Lord Chief Baron then said: Thomas Smethnest, you have been found quity of the another of Isabella Bankes. I think it would be difficult for any one to consider the evidence both for and against you without coming to the same conclusion which the jury have pronoused by their verdict. Restoration of Bishop Onderdonk.

Gircunstances transpiring within a short time past, enable us to stare, upon authority, which is must to be questioned, that a morement is on foot for the restoration of Hishop Onderdonk to the full exercise of his Episcopal functions in this Diocese, and with every present prospect of success, and with every present prospect of success of suspension has just been removed by a voluntary act on his part which must rob the question of restoration of everything like partisan or personal feeling, and place it now solely in the higher and nobler light of an appeal to Christian forgreeness on the one hand, and Christian fungraminity on the other. We refer to a memorial to which the venerable discessm has recently affixed his signature, in which, after acquisting his breathern of improper motives in his conviction, achieving the justice of their set of discipling, and professing his sincere sorrier and repentance, he ask that his sentence may be resulted. We bear further that a petition, hased upon this ammorial, is now in picculation for signatures among the clergy and lairy of the Diocess. This petition, in due time, is to be forwarded to the House of Brishops at the next General Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Chancel, which assembles at Richmond, Va., on the belief and the set of the state of the state of the restorated of the all months. bars signed a petition for his re-insillation, which will be presented to the House of Bishopant the General Gonzention to be cheld next month in Richmond, Virginia. His confession, —for such in fact is Bishop Onderdonk's acknowledgment of the act of discipline by which he was suspended,—will surpruss many, and may be differently viewed by different parties. Some will deem it indecrous that a man deposed from a sacred office for acknowledged sits that unfitted him for his position should indeavor to regain that office, and revive the memory of the events that have sadly stained his reputation and impaired his uscfulness. Christian forgiveness may extend its mantle over him as a man and a Chri-tian, but it is an open question whether one who proved himself, when in the full vigor of life, unworthy of his high calling and election, should, in old age, and chelfly from the sympathy that his venerable appearance and sincero repentance awaken, he recalled to that high office. At the same time, the spectacle of an influential band of diergy and people welcoming back to be their spiritual head a man in Bishop Onderdonk's position, would present a phase of Christian torgiveness almost unparalleled in its sublimity in the history of the Church.

After acquitting his brethren of improper motives in his conviction, acknowledging the justice of their act of discipline, and protessing his sincere sorrow and repentance, bu aska that his sentence may be remitted. CHENERAL INVITATION.

The Printing Establishment of the Parss.

AND TRIBUNE will be open for visitors to-day between 10 A. M. and 4 P. M. We shall be glad to show any or all of the Strangers at the Fair how printing in Chicago is done. It is not immodest in us to say that our establishment—by all odds the most extensive and complete printing house in the west—is worthy of a visit. Inquire at the business office No. 51 Clark St.

YESTERDAY'S SPEECHES.

We hope that none of our renders at a distance will form their cominions of the attractions.

tance will form their opinions of the attractions of the National Fair, by the taste of the speeches delivered on the grounds, yesterday, by those emisent agriculturists, Messrs. CRITTENDEN and DOUGLAS, The obvious bull in which the machine is held, we men made by the former in exhorting the people of the Northwest to avoid disunion—the people who have never contemplated a resort to so treasonable a remedy for their grievances herd that was lowing around the erator as he spoke. We tell Mr. Crittenden that his breath s wasted, that his platitudes amount to Nobody here wants, nobody has asked for, noody would have disunion; and it is a work of supererogation, in the distinguished Ken-tuckian, to warn our people against what the wildest among them never look to as the object or as one of the possible consequences of their political action. If he will plead the cause of the Union, let him go among those who make disunion their purpose The North-West needs no admonition such as it pleased the ex-Senator to utter. Her people are loyal, by instinct and and the Union the power to accomplish all that their ambition and patriotism covet.

Only those to whom the Constitution is a hinsuce and the Union a hated restraint, desire to be rid of either—only those who have set up, in defiance of the maxims and policy of the Fathers of the Republic, a new object of politi-cal worship, and who have stigmatized Liberty that they might deify Slavery, need Mr. Crit-tenden's advice. The farmers and mechanics of the Northwest—the sons of freedom and of toilwill never tear the stars from the stripes of the loved and honored flag beneath which Mr. Crittenden spoke. That work, if ever done, is reserved for those to whom freedom is hateful and toil a disgrace. To them Mr. Crittender hould preach. The Lacedemonians knew no a certain crime until a law was passed punishing it. We fear that the presence and har augues of the professed Union-savers, will teach ur loyal people that disunion is possible, pe

A GREAT SEED SOWER.—The best Seed Sowe came, and a glorious one it was, for McCor mick's reaper walked through the teeming fields of John Bull in a manner that perfectly we have seen on the Fair Ground is the "Eg-gleston Broad-cast Sower." It is manufactured at Beloit by H. Rosenblatt & Co., and sold for astonished the sons of that venerable old fogy, and the name of McCormick of Chicago rang from one end of Europe to the other. And when $40. It is the only seed sower which we have ever seen that can be depended upon for sowing various kinds of grain, in all qualities of sell, from one end of Europe to the other. And when the American gallantly won the trident of the seas, the ponderous London Times carefully acrutinized the results of the Fair, and with a candor worthy of all praise, acknowledged that what Europe had learned from the American department of the fair was worth more to the industrial and productive interests of her people than the entire cost of the fair.

As an example of the estimation the number manufactured has been steadily increasing from aixteen hundred in 1854 to five thousand in 1859.

A steam drill, invented by our fellow-citizen
F.S. Sherman, Esq., in operation at the quarry, greatly interested us. It drills a hole of five inches in diameter at the the rate of from three to five feet per hour. It was driven by a six-horse engine. While there we saw two blasts charged with a keg of powder each in a hole some twelve feet deep go off, and the amount of material moved was really enormous. Mr. Taylor estimates it at from fitfeen to sixty cords. ing the whole day and evening of Wednesday, Sept. 14. Refreshments will be served by the lady managers. The mode of charging the blasl, as the holes had a foot or two of water in the bottom, was curious, and a description of it may be useful to some our readers.

The powder was put in a long bag of FRIENDLESS.—The Steamer Planet will leave the wharf east side of Rush street bridge for Wau-kegan at 11 o'clock Thursday, Sept. 15th, re-turning by moonlight. The operation may be ommon, but its cheapness and simplicity may oot be known to all our readers.

We are glad to add that the steam drill of which we have spoken, is to be on exhibition a the United States Fair, and the stone-crushing machine will, if it is permitted, be entered where it is, as it is too ponderous, and its constant use is too valuable to allow it to be re-moved to the Fair grounds.

Messrs. Reuben Taylor & Son have the con-tract for furnishing the blocks to pave Lassile

There need be no competition between them and the proprietors of the Joliet and Summit gravel. All of them will have all they can do for years to come get our streets in order. When once finished (when will that be?) we shall have the fine streets of any city in the Union.

Half dozen, perhaps a dozen of these machines could find active employment for many years to come in the vicinity of every city in the Union. The inventors of such a machine are certainly th nefactors of their species.

New Yonx, Sept. 18.—The Africa will take only a smail amount of specie. The principal export of the week will be by the Hamburg steamer on Thursday, and the Arago on Saturday. The annual cotton statement for the year 1838 and 739 will be found below, by which it will be seen that the crop of the season just closed reached 3,851,451 bales, being 328,656, in excess of the largest year on record, 1835 and 36. The consumption of the world, however, has been on a par with this large yield, and the average price obtained by the planter has even been higher than in any previous year. The exports to foreign ports necessarily show a considerable increase, particularly to Great Britain, over 2,000,000 bales having been shipped to that market alone, while the quantity for consumption in this country, including bound, amounts to 937,651 bales, against 595,562 last year.
